Dennis –a monodrama is a “performative documentary” depicting the journey of an experimental journalist travelling to Wichita tracking the traces of a killer and her own imagination of him, Dennis.

It is a film about desire, memory, fantasies and mirrors. A monodrama.

Line Kallmayer(1976) is born and raised in Denmark, but is now residing in London, England, where she is doing her final year of a degree in fine art at Goldsmiths.
Her basis of work comes from photography but she is more and more working with video and film, but also ventures into the making of music, sound, performance, installation and text.
She has a prior degree in English and psychology and is furthermore a graduate from Fatamorgana, The Danish School of Art Photography in Denmark.
